THE JUNIOR CLASS

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

ANNVILLE, PENNSYLVANIA

DEDICATION

The Class of 1929 speaks for the whole college of Lebanon Valley in dedicating this volume to—

DR. PAUL A. W. WALLACE
PROFESSOR OF ENGLISH

In him we all love and honor a sympathetic guide through the morningland of literature

A noble man, an unselfish teacher, a devoted friend, a lover of man and God.

DR. PAUL A. W. WALLACE, PhD.
Professor of English

FOREWORD

This 1929 Quittapahilla

is our contribution to Lebanon Valley College. We do not wish it to be merely a record, but an inspiration. If it has in any way advanced those ideals for which our Alma Mater stands, we have accomplished our purpose.

ATHLETICS

WITHIN your shining depths, dear friend,
Lie stories never told,
Of lovely maids and handsome youths
Whose steps were brave and bold.

Glide on, among the trees and hills
With sound of joy and mirth;
Flow on, 'tween banks of velvet green,
Through glade, by grassy earth.

When the long, long day is over,
And shades of twilight fall,
Fond memories come rushing
In answer to my call.

And they bring back all my troubles,
Joys, sorrows, toil, and care,
Of school days and the "Quittie",
And all that I found there.

*"When Summer's Steps have vanished and Autumn's on the lea,
Come ye back, come ye back,
to dear old L. V. C."*

*"Exalt ye the Lord our God
And worship at His footstool;
For He is Holy."*

"A great library contains the diary of the human race."

*"Every room
Hath blazed with lights and brayed with minstrelsy."*

*"Survey our empire, and
behold our home!
These are our realms,
no limit to their sway."*

*"Here haunting recollections throng
from bygone years,
For every nook and corner
holds a memory."*

*"From our own selves
our joy must flow,
And that dear hut, our home."*

*"Yes, music is the Prophet's art
Among the gifts that God hath sent,
One of the most magnificent."*

DR. GEORGE DANIEL GOSSARD, B.D., D.D.

President's Message

PPORTUNITIES for advancement in your life are many and varied. Those who see and take advantage rise, move forward, accomplish, and are crowned victors.

The college opens great doors and urges onward and upward all who choose to enter. Hardships, privations, difficulties are met and conquered.

Increased opportunities mean increased responsibilities but success and happiness come to those only who are willing to pay the price. Will you be a winner?

G. D. Gossard, President

Senior Class History

O with your might what your hands find to do." We have heard the above quotation each day (provided we went to chapel) through the four years of our college life. The quotation itself without material is worthless, but we are proud to say we possess the material. Every campus activity attests the fact. The Y. M. & Y. W., Men's Senate and W. S. G. A., the Literary Societies and Literary Clubs, all show results of our efforts. We have contributed valuable man power to the baseball and basket ball teams. And who, of those on our campus at the time, will forget that Sunday in late October, 1927, when the L. V. football squad returned trailing Brown's scalp? '28 is proud to say that we were well represented in the back field and on the line in that game. The Quittie and La Vie Collegienne show our effort along literary lines. All in all, the class of '28 has been able to show practical and powerful results since first they came to the campus in 1924, a very green crowd of Frosh.

The real spirit of '28 was shown for the first time in the Tug of War. True, we had won the class scrap, but in the main that was a physical victory. The grinding, heart-breaking Tug, almost an hour long, called on the greatest moral and physical power of which our men were capable. The Tug of our Sophomore year was of a similar nature, but we won both with the high calibre of fighting spirit that belongs to '28.

Our Sophomore year taught us that truly there is strength in team work. However, profiting by our mistakes, we strengthened ourselves in unity. We entered more fully into college life, preparing for the leadership which comes to upper-classmen. As Juniors we published our annual and are justly proud of it and of our dramatization of three modern one-act plays; "Ile", "A Well Remembered Voice", and "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets".

As a class we have never forgotten that "knowledge is virtue". Our stay in college has been filled with good times, but we remember that we are students first and foremost. The greatest satisfaction of our Senior year is this: at last we have been able to take semester exams in the renovated chapel instead of the "bull pen". Now there are only a few short months of college life remaining to us. But we continue to move on, and when the unit class of '28 is scattered through the world, we feel that L. V.'s favorite maxim will be faithfully carried on by each one of us. The same spirit which carried us through four years of college failures and successes victoriously, will color our passage through the school of life. Living up to it, we know we have done our best for Alma Mater and ourselves.

To those who follow after, especially to the class of '29, we can only say, "Do with your might what your hands find to do".

Junior Class History

1-9-2-9!

Our clear-ringing shout, as of a multitude of voices seemed to echo and re-echo over the campus. Who were these young men and young women who seemed to be so full of life and pep, so willing to work together? The Freshmen, of course—our class of '29. Gathered here from all four corners of the earth, we had chosen L. V. as our Alma Mater and we decided to do all in our power to be worthy of her. Of course, we became homesick at times, but on returning we learned that our particular niche in the community had been filled by someone else, that our interests had broadened out, and it was in the "old home town" that we were exiles, not at school. Then, indeed, did we truly desire to labor more earnestly and joyfully. The spirit of cooperation born anew brought us triumphantly through class activities that first year. Possessed of a boundless enthusiasm, with everything new to us, and eager to conquer, we chose the motto, "Altior".

The short separation during the summer months did not weaken our new ties and new friendships we had made, but only caused us to return more eager for work, looking for new worlds to conquer. Our Sophomore year, as well as our Freshman year was filled with success mixed with defeat, yet above and beyond all we carried that standard, "Altior". Defeats only urged us on, while successes—well, they made the campus interesting. Who does not remember that glorious football game our first year? Or that awe-inspiring tug our Soph year when we watched those bodies bend back and forth in regular rhythm while the grim look on the boys' faces told of an unconquerable spirit. And then the hikes and parties afterward! We had learned to play as well as work together.

Now that we have come to our Junior year, we find ourselves in that particular group called "Upper Classmen". The queerest part of it is, we really don't understand why or how we have arrived here. Finding ourselves "big sisters" and "big brothers", we realize that we must watch our steps or some little Freshman will be imitating us. Who does not desire a certain satisfaction from sitting down front in chapel? That, at least, is one time when we consider it an honor and not something to be dreaded. As always happens, some of our members have been lost to us since Freshman days, but it has only served to bind the rest of us more closely together. Among the new responsibilities which have been added we find that our biggest task has been the edition of this year book. Yet in this also, our motto has urged us onward, striving to excel former records. Good luck to it and may we not forget "Altior", for—

"A man's reach should exceed his grasp Or what's a Heaven for —?"

Who but Henry would be the proper person to grace the first page of the Junior section! Henry or "Mooney", as he is more familiarly known, is a product of Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn, the home of Arrow Collar models and "unlimited" wrestlers. Through his tireless efforts the infant drum and bugle corps has made rapid strides toward filling the gap made by the absence of a band. But "Mooney" is not always busy for when the work of the day is finished he always takes time to amuse the "boys". On such occasions he is almost certain to give a resume of the latest exploits of one brother "Herbie".

Hazel comes to us from the sunny South where hazel nuts and luscious peaches grow. Her slim figure, dusky hair and eyes, white teeth, and friendly smile are a combination of which her native state may be proud. We hear that Hazel occasionally sleeps over-time. Perhaps she misses her "Big Ben." As a charter member of the Rebel Club, Hazel gets a big "kick" out of donning disreputable clothes and impersonating a comical dorky. Hazel and her roomie are such inseparable companions that if they were not diametrically opposite in appearance, they might be taken for twins. Hazel's even temper and willing disposition have won her many friends who wish her the best in life.

"Of all those acts in which the wise excel Nature's chief masterpiece is writing well."

A busier some-body than this young man would be very difficult to find. He is truly the "Jack-of-all-trades" for one marvels how it is possible for him to get his extra curricular duties so arranged with his curricular ones so that there is always a time for everything. Besides doing a part of the art work for the "Quittie", he is newspaper reporter, hash-slinger, glee-club member, and what not, but still manages to hold his own in the classroom. Jack, we have bright hopes for the congregation that secures a minister with such versatility.

"I will sit down now, but the time will come when you will hear me."

"Behold the Bishop!" From our Freshman year when Russell made his debut as an orator in Miss Bilbo's English class, this nickname has been handed down. We all can remember the "Bishop", with his one hand stuck deep into his trouser pocket, and the corner of his mouth twisted downward into what was almost a sneer, expound on all manner of things, often to the great amusement of his listeners. Those days have gone, for now he seems to be holding himself aloof, but not as the monks of old who were confined to their monasteries. His time is divided between tinkering with his Ford, calling on a sweet little maiden, and carrying the Message to his congregation. We hope that he can continue in his path and "be a shining light" in his chosen work—the Ministry.

"Mollie" and Irene are really twins altho' one can not exactly see the resemblance. They are inseparable and almost as much one as the famous Siamese twins. Mollie is perhaps a little less fond of Math problems, and has a number of younger brothers and sisters for whom she must be a shining example. She is a great traveller, having been most everywhere in the U. S. A. worth visiting except Washington, D. C. She is a capable seamstress and makes many of her clothes all by herself. Her chief abomination is an examination for she always threatens to write "It's a lot of bologna" as an answer to a question. She is optimistic and friendly and as such makes a pleasant comrade.

"Distance sometimes endears friendship, and absence sweeteneth it".

Any observer happening to be present on the campus after a meal will often notice a good-looking young man, with prominent facial adornment, his hands tucked deep into his trouser pockets, escorting a demure young Miss to the post-office. One knows immediately from his bodily carriage that it is our old friend "Spring-in-the-heel". It is an easy and pleasant virtue when neither man nor woman can testify anything to his discredit, for John seems to keep his things very much to himself. However, when there is excitement of any kind he and his crowd from room 30 are always present. Doubts are often held as to whether or not they were the chief agitators. Our "Johnny" from "9-0-6-0" is interested in Chemistry and we wish him success, at the same time warning him against any organic concoctions which may blow away the north wing of the Ad Building.

Carefree, irresponsible, happy-go-lucky Betty! Somehow we can't imagine her ending up as a spectacled, shriveled school ma'am, for Betty is a lover of the great outdoors. Many were the "botanical" trips she took in the woods her Sophomore year with a fellow botanist. Then too, Betty's father has a hunting cabin some where in the wild and wooly district around Lebanon where Betty and her girl friends had many hair-raising experiences. Her interest in Lehigh University was conspicuous until for some reason or other Johns Hopkins attracted her attention. We regret to say that Betty will chuckle like a cackling hen, but perhaps a certain red-haired doctor...? Science can do so much now-a-days.

Though never in the closest contact with "Bill", we are certain that he is a busy man. A great many of us know his ability to debate and orate through participation in Society programs. He is also quite a student and takes a keen interest in Dr. Reynolds' class in Psychology, for the occasions are rare when he is unable to answer any of Prof's. brain-racking questions. Perhaps we never have "Bill" among us because he has a little wife to cheer him. With her as his inspiration, and the training that he has received here at Lebanon Valley, both in and out of the classroom, we are sure that the future spells, "Success", for him in his endeavors.

"It is a great thing to know the season for speech and the season for silence."

If it is true that the wisest people in the world are those who wait for some one to do the speaking, "Mickey" surely is one wise boy. He joined our class the first year and during our first two years, even though he commuted, he was present at all our class functions. He was especially prompt when we were ready to do battle with the "Frosh" and "Sophs" in our inter-class contests. This year he has visited the "boys" in the dorm very seldom and we have missed him much. Perhaps it is bashfulness that accounts for his quietness and keeps him aloof. Then again, there may be someone in whose presence his mask falls away and he reveals the true friendliness which we are sure is hidden there. We know that he has a strong determination for the right things of life in which we wish him the best of luck.

Her friends say she gets her "rowdyish" spells every now and then. She reads quite extensively, is an active member of Readers' Club, and a capable Library Assistant. Kit would get 100% if examined on School Spirit, high ratings on Pep and Willingness to Serve. She is an ardent lover of the out-of-doors and spends her summers as a supervisor of an open air playground, returning to us in the Autumn with a healthy coat of tan. Kit is ambitious to become a city librarian sometime and we predict for her complete success.

If using whole days makes you happy then Carol's ready cheer is easily accounted for. She is just about the busiest Junior on the campus. There are any number of nice things you can say about her. In the first place she is an exceptional student. Then too, she is a versatile public speaker (and private). Those who saw the Clio Anniversary program and the Junior play know that Carol is quite accomplished as an actress. As Literary Editor of the "Quittie" she shows her skill with the pen. However, there is an old adage which says, "If a man has no big faults look out for small ones". So in order to take away the suspicion that Carol has a lot of little faults we attribute to her one big fault—she is always on behind "like an old cow's tail".

"But still his tongue ran on, the less of weight it bore with greater ease."

"Friends, Romans, Countrymen, lend me your ears." When one comes to praise a man, yea verily, that man must have done wonders. So we have come to praise "Red" for he is a wonder and has accomplished wonders. History speaks of men who have lived before their age. He must be one of these. These chronicles of time, especially at L. V., will bring back memories of one who performed a "Steve Brodie" from the balcony of the gymnasium, winning for his feat, undying fame, and better yet, a maiden fair. Does anyone then blame "Mike" for attempting a similar feat? In spite of his physical incapacities, "Red" is always busy, but that smile which causes his eyes to disappear still remains.

Mary's life seems to be full of mysteries and secrets. In fact, her irrepressible, irresistible giggle heralds the fact that she has another secret "under her hat." Strangely enough, she gets a real, life-sized "kick" out of visiting a brother in Fleetwood. Mary actually believes that Fleetwood is the capital of the United States. (Her classes at L. V. C. are interesting, too.) Probably like grape nuts, "There's a reason", if we only knew. Mary's quite a linguist; the "line-up" of languages that she's studying would make a professional interpreter look dizzy. She is, moreover, an active member of the Readers' Club and there, as everywhere, exhibits her ability and willingness to do whatever she has been asked.

All the fields of Biology and its kindred have a lure for him. Many a night has he spent in the laboratory with only the alligators and the spirits of dead animals to keep him company. When day comes he is seen marching about with his camera looking for new sights to grace the pages of the 1929 "Quittie," thus making the name of "Calabrese and Derickson" famous as photographers of merit. His diligence will make him worthy of upholding the illustrious name — Derickson.

The very clever "Ad-man" who wrote, "It's the cut of your clothes that counts", must have had "Kike" in mind, for he certainly has selected one who fits the slogan. "Kike" is another of these commuters with whom we can only become acquainted by making our way to the Day Students' Room. Here he and his cohorts hold sway and we can imagine that, with his ability to tolerate the frivolous, he is a huge factor in the contentment of his friends. He is not with us as much as we should like him to be. No doubt part of his time is spent in wrestling with the facts of History and Education, but the greater portion is spent in Middletown. Hence, one can forgive him for not coming around more often, as long as he is true to the cause.

The willingness to do things and the power to overcome seemingly unsurmountable obstacles are exemplary of this young fellow, Disney. He is another one whose visits into our domain have become less and less every year. He must be "cracking" the books more than ever, for although we see him only in the classroom, we know from his association there that he is quite a student. When any question that concerns either historical or psychological data arises, he is right there with an answer and his "words carry weight". With his natural interest in his work, we predict that some day in the future he will make Wells and Pillsbury look to their laurels. This young man's triple assets, his knowledge of the subject, his pleasing personality taken together with his dry humor should aid him greatly when he expounds knowledge to classes of high school boys and girls.

"Opinion in good men is but knowledge in the making."

Simultaneously with the dawning of long breeches, the dawning of a great desire for wisdom came into the life of this young man. He therefore decided to desert daily the hamlet of his adolescence to come to Lebanon Valley for further intellectual achievements. Earl comes from Lebanon. If we could use blood as red ink we would underscore the foregoing sentence to make it more emphatic. So very few Lebanon Valleyites come from that place??

Who could say more for a man than that he puts all he has into everything he does? This is typical of Earl and our contact with him, though it is limited, proves him to be of that quiet industrious type which is characterized by silent energy. A very reserved young man in company, he becomes a most genial and pleasing companion among his most intimate associates. It is even said that he is also a constant worshipper of that goddess—Romance.

And neither leans on this side nor on that."

Besides having the state and nationally famous bologna, Lebanon can lay claim to having Lebanon Valley's biggest student. Head and shoulders above the multitude and with bodily width that threatens to fill entire doorways, with the cold eyes of his Teutonic ancestors, "Dutch" has certainly filled a "great space" on the campus. Although he is not with us always it does not lessen his loyalty to school and class, nor does it lessen his desire for knowledge, for he ranks among the foremost in his course of study. His demeanor is characterized by a kind of severity. But this is only a shell underneath which is a friend as good hearted as the best. In spite of the fact that he has very little to say, his smile makes his acquaintances his friends. We wish him many more acquaintances and the best of fortune in the fulfillment of his duties in life.

"I have fed like a farmer; I shall grow fat as a porpoise."

Donald was christened "Gimpy" the first year he came to Lebanon Valley. This name has "stuck" to him through these few years, for each succeeding year makes a new impression. Once a "gimpy" leg; then a plastered nose; and then an arm-in-a-sling. Each serves to makes his pseudo-name fit better. He may seem to be a queer sort of a person to those who don't know him, and perhaps even to the co-eds he seems bashful, indifferent or uncongenial. They, however, do not know him, for those of us who have worked with him, and played with him for years know that there is no better pal than "Gimp". When there is any kind of a trick "pulled" in the dorm, you can be sure that he is an interested spectator, or most likely, one of the "agitators". But say what we may, all of us know that he has chosen for himself the ideal and is doing his best to live up to it.

"His words like so many nimble and airy servitors Trip about him at command."

The first knowledge that we had of this fellow with the Biblical name came in this our Junior year when we heard a sweet young thing exclaim, "Who's the good looking guy over there." "Spade" came into "our fold" from Keystone Normal. No doubt he left there because of the oppressions of the female of the species. But then again, what was their loss is our gain, for "Spade" has established himself in L. V. circles as a good fellow. He acclimated himself to his new place from the very first and showed us some of his ability when he coached the yearling team which so easily defeated the "Sophs". He is also a singer of no mean ability, as he is a member of our Glee Club. Perhaps there are other abilities which will burst forth after he has become more "dyed-in-the-wool". Our only regret is that he did not come to us sooner.

This young man from the wilds of York County, though the son of a minister, seems to have turned from his father's footsteps, lured by the sciences and mathematics. As a result, he is one of Prof. Grimm's choice pupils. Although christened "William" by his parents, this elongated red head, because of his interest in a novel of yesterday, has been named "Peter" and his new name remains intact. "Peter" came among us as a quiet and studious fellow and still is the same sedate and unassuming person. However, he is not nearly so unknown now as then. We who have associated with him know his sterling qualities and his determination to "press forward to his calling". In later years when our hair becomes tinged with gray, we shall look forward to meeting "Peter" and his usual "How ah ya!"

Ruth is a walking advertisement of "that skin you love to touch". Her "peaches and cream" complexion is only equalled by her matchless disposition. She combines dignity and reserve with a perfectly unmanagable giggle and loquacious tendency in such a way as to greatly charm her acquaintances. She came to L. V. C. as the winner of a County Scholastic Contest, leaving a host of friends and admiring populace behind her. Ruth likes all the girls and most of the boys in general, as well as one Freshman in particular. Her outstanding ambition is to get thin, but her chief objection to dieting is that it is too slow a process. Ruth is rather hard to get to know intimately but these who have had that privilege will always be thankful.

Is it from there, we wonder, that Jane gets those delicious boxes of Fanny Farmer Chocolates? We regret that until her schedules are arranged to her satisfaction, Jane always has trouble to fall asleep. Even the reciting of Chaucer's "Prologue" is ineffectual. And then the mice are so bothersome at night?!! In spite of her annoyances (including a roommate) Jane manages to pull a beautiful string of A's and withal keep her modest demeanor. We consider ourselves fortunate to have her rank us as her friends.

In addition she is a very charming and attractive young woman. She is active and gay, tender and reflective, generous and loyal. She's got real sporting blood in her and her ability on the basket ball floor is unquestioned. As an active Delphian member she delights her audience with her graceful dancing. Eddie's fondness for candy is innate, but her loyalty to her native state makes her prefer sweets from home, especially the "Oh Henry" brand. "There's something odd about everyone", she thinks, and proceeds to ridicule that characteristic. She can entertain by the hour for, in addition to being a talented singer, she is also a capable actress, and then, how she can talk! Her time may conveniently be divided into three cycles: (1) Period of dieting; (2) Interlude; (3) Period of eating. Twenty-four hours experience in her Freshman days of wearing a baby bonnet with blue ribbons under the chin was enough. And anyhow, it's nicer to be a real college "coed" and go away on jolly week-end trips. It gives a better opportunity to indulge any of her three hobbies: dates, Dates, DATES. "Mim" loves to have something to fuss about and luckily, she can always find a pain somewhere. Perhaps that accounts for the appalling number of cuts checked against her name. But chewing gum isn't really a sure cure, "Mim." Nothing is too much trouble for her to do to oblige a friend. "She's a darn good kid," is the universal observation.

That purpose being to study, he has allowed neither man nor maid to turn him from the straight and narrow path that leads to knowledge. Co-eds have no attraction for him, neither do hikes or parties offer any amusement for him. When he seeks companionship, he betakes himself into seclusion with books—books—books. His ability to keep "his head when all about him are losing theirs" has won for him the respect of his classmates. "A moral, sensible, and well-bred man", the most casual observer can discern. There is also that unruffled composure, the unassuming attitude, the benign disposition, and the equipoised temperament, necessary attributes of one who expects to make his way through the world without "blowing his horn" too loudly. He is one of those few who accomplish great things in a busy world without attracting unusual attention. But let him linger in your presence and you are finally enveloped by his naive and sparkling humor and his quaint Pennsylvania Dutch colloquialisms. One with such finality of ideal and purpose must surely reach the highest pinnacle attainable.

FREDERICK KEIPER MILLER

Lebanon, Pa.

History Kalozetean

"Gentle in manner, strong in performance."

A blast of trumpets, a crash of drums, and lo!—Frederick Keiper. That, however, is too poor an accompaniment for this young man, one of those rare specimens—a good athlete, a good socializer and withal a good student. Few possess the varied talents of this lad. He plays basketball of a professional type, is attractive and has the ability to offer good qualities of entertainment. "Fritz" expects to be a professor some day and we know he will give his classes the "right dope" about history, even from the time of Adam. It may be better that he should be an engineer, for rumors are afloat that he is contemplating the erection of a private telephone line across the campus. But then almost every fellow has something that causes someone to envy him and "Fritz" is no exception. Well here's to you, "Levi", the opportunity is yours for the taking.

"Be calm in arguing; for fierceness makes Error a fault, and truth discourtesy."

Irene is one of those nice Annville girls who calmly sauntered through the doors of A. H. S. and just naturally kept on walking into the doorway of Lebanon Valley College. However, Irene came with a very special recommendation—she had been valedictorian. But "you'd never know it, would you?" we hear her modestly disclaim. Just before its time to close the door, Irene pops into class looking very solemn but it isn't long until we hear that girlish giggle. She is an industrious solver of Math. problems and a mighty good basketball player. She spends much time in the mountains where each summer she renews her intimate acquaintance with a tray. If she stands by her parent ambition, she may become a school marm, in Porto Rico.

"You are a devil at everything, and there is no kind of thing in the 'versal world but what you can turn your hand to."

Janet is a delightfully provoking contradiction. On first sight we take in the long, waved, golden locks and sky blue eyes, and uncertainly, we tell ourselves we are beholding an ethereal, poetic vision. But in a few minutes the subject of our dubious speculations breaks into a piercing whistle, a boisterous laugh, or a manish stride, and in a short while our mental index rearranges itself. "Oh, athlete," we think. And then comes a pageant of some sort. Down comes the rarely seen really long hair, a pantomime costume is donned, and lo! there we have our original angel again. We return to normality and Janet is just a regular ordinary girl. But happily there are those who continue to see her as the "dream girl." However, normality with its school life, its friendships, its basketball games, its debating, and its profs isn't such a bad life after all, is it, Janet?

"Tho' she is little, she is fierce."

"Petite child", some one murmured kindly. "O, thank you", was Miriam's grateful response, "I thought you'd say 'skinny youngun'." That is what demonstrates her outstanding characteristic, an irrepressible sense of humor. She may not be "long" in bodily structure but neither is she short in ability. She has a very quick mind and a nimble wit, together with what she will tell you is a "sunny" disposition. Her favorite diversion is playing solitaire, especially since her favorite song became "Just a Memory." The young lady has an alarming tendency to talk furiously and frequently and a decided propensity for argument. It is a constant source of annoyance to her that she will blush. When she fails to get her eight hours of sleep she resembles nothing so much as a fussy hen. The literary field to which she aspires should prepare to greet a daisy.

It has often been said by men innumerable that some are born lucky, others are born, and yet others have friends. We are able to classify the beaming countenance of friend Russell in all three of the categories for he has been so fortunate as to have attained a very abundant share of each. Throughout the past three years of his career within these ivy-covered walls his spontaneous wit and his dry humor have made for him a host of friends. Besides being famous as one of Calabrese's cheer leaders, he takes an active part in college and class affairs. "He would talk of nothing but high-life and high-sounding company."

"Stretch" is a stalwart Jerseyite from the wilds of Lodi who enjoys basketball like most of us enjoy a piece of cake. To see the grace and agility with which "Stan" dribbles down the floor making his opponents look ridiculous when he twirls the ball about on his one hand is a rare pleasure in itself. However, to watch the ball as he "whips" it through the cords is the supreme joy of the school. Yet basketball is not his only line for he has been a member of the Varsity baseball and football teams for two years and here too does his "stuff" with his usual brilliancy.

Though a trifle bashful, his sunny disposition and obliging personality have won for him a multitude of friends, and we, The Class of '29, are justly proud of claiming him as one of our number.

Palmer evidently took to heart what Mark Twain wrote concerning journalism—at least that's what most of the boys think as they read the "ghastly details" that he has placed under their pictures. "Put 'er"—(now please don't ask where or how he got that name), however, is very reliable under ordinary conditions of temperature and pressure, so that the above must not be taken too literally. He is quite active in class, society and other campus activities (?) holding offices of importance from time to time, and "lest we forget", a much envied one in the York County Grange. After waiting patiently for two years this "chappy" burst forth with an hirsute appendage all his own. The results? Look around!

*"To be happy here is man's chief end
For to be happy must needs be good."*

Rearick meandered into our midst after a sojourn at Penn State and he immediately made his presence known by his ability to do things. The first weeks of school saw him a daily frequenter of the tennis courts where he demonstrated his ability in handling the tennis racquet. When the Glee Club broadcasted its call for men his basso secured for him a place in the ranks. Then when the drum corps needed a drum major, he was the one for the place, his work with the baton having made him a very conspicuous figure at the head of this organization. He has shown by his work that he is also helping to make his Alma Mater "bigger and better". We feel sorry for Penn State because she had to lose him, but pride ourselves that he has joined us. We only wish that he would have come to us before he died.

This unassuming girl never blows her own horn but one need not be around her long before her real worth and high ability shine forth. In spite of the fact that she was continually taking extra hours, she has managed to lead her class scholastically ever since she entered college. Her interests are not wholly confined to her studies, however. With a rifle over her shoulder and her faithful dog, "Nellie", scampering ahead, Ruth is frequently seen en route to her beloved mountains. She is fond of all kinds of riding too, but prefers a certain Dort which calls for her at school not infrequently. Her natural ability plus conscientious application will make her an object of regard wherever she goes.

"But the fruit that fall without shaking Indeed is too mellow for me".

Diminutive in stature, but great in spirit—so we have found "Scrunt". Although he is only of "half-pint" size, this is no serious drawback to his activities. He is a true friend, a hard worker (when it comes to dumping beds), and that twisted grin has made for him a host of friends who are ready to stand by him one minute, and—jump on him the next. He is the "agitator extraordinary" with just enough devilry about him to make him delightfully wicked. When an innocent pedestrian passing the Boys' Dorm is splattered by the contents of a paper bag which comes from "who knows where", the first question is, "Where's 'Scrunt' Rider?" In a great majority of the cases this culprit has been unearthed.

In all, despite his "deficiencies" he is a real pal and we shall indeed be sorry to leave him when our days here are ended.

Irene is another of those friendly girls from South Hall. On first impression she is a rather quiet, capable girl, a fine student, and a good friend. But she is more than that. She has a social personality and takes an infinite deal of pleasure in making "wise cracks" and in eating cake. She is a silent admirer of scientists,—all scientists in general and one in particular. Her own good standing with her instructors is evidenced by the fact that she has been chosen to assist in both German and French. Now if she would only be asked to assist in the Science Department! It's all right, of course, Irene, but "we're on to your curves."

They say she still believes in fairies and Santa Claus and we're sure she's the co-worker of "Bunny." Emma came to us as the winner of the County Scholastic Scholarship and in spite of the fact that she takes part in many extra-curricular activities, she "keeps up her end" scholastically as well. Sometime we would like to see Emma embarked on the career that would suit her best—that of the loving and helpful wife of a fine, young minister. Of course, we wouldn't mention any names.

*"Whatever sceptic could inquire for,
For every why she had a wherefore."*

This young lady, universally known as "Fannie," came to us her Sophomore year from the Newark Preparatory School. She insists that she doesn't study, but she wishes she "could." However, no one else that could talk as rapidly as Fannie would "plug away" at lessons either because the profs couldn't follow anyhow. Fannie loves to go shopping for she will tell you confidentially that she's going to be a business woman some day and have a shop of her own. Reading and painting are her two favorite occupations as she is quite talented in the latter. In fact, she spent one summer at an art school and some of the beautiful presents that her friends have received bear striking evidence of her ability. Fannie impartially addresses each and every one of us as "my dear" and, as far as we have discovered, is still heart whole and fancy free.

"Speb" is the true business man from start to finish for the term, "Business is business," is typical of his outlook on life. If you are searching for a man to look very carefully over your "debits and credits" we recommend him because we feel certain that he can fill the bill. His work for Professor Stokes has been of the highest type as the record in the department speaks for his ability. Business surely has become his hobby and needless to say, he is taking full advantage of it (that is during the week). His week-ends are spent back home, but then that is some more of his "business." He has worked hard for three years striving to become a manager in one of the sports. A manager, according to the dictionary, is "one who directs or conducts anything, a skilled economist, etc." More business!

The friendly, hospitable nature of "Tomhorse" makes every visitor feel at home whether in the dorm or over at "Aunt Mary's" where she spent her first two years. Besides being a student, Ruth finds time to write for "La Vie" and the "Quittie" and to keep up her work on the piano and organ. "Lest we forget"—we wish to present herewith the "pride" of Hershey, wishing that you could all make the acquaintance of this intellectual looking chap. This jolly, round-faced cherub with the merry twinkle in his eye comes from the "chocolate town" and it certainly did a good job in sending this bit of avoirdupois (?) to us. "Ken" is just what a man of his build should be; happy and gay, and with that he has incorporated his ability to tear apart all the formulae of Physics and Chemistry and thus show that he is also a student of no mean ability. In the day students' room where "men are men and Frosh are dumb," he and the other half of the Stuckey combination reign in their glory. "Ken," above all, is one jump ahead of any of his classmates not only in connection with his class work, but due to the fact that "everyone loves a fat man."

"Our deeds determine us, as much as

This is another of those "college boys" who hails from up Hershey way. Yes, he is a brother to the other one. Would you believe it? Of it's many wonders, Hershey is noted chiefly for three things; its chocolate plant, its park, and "Russ." Of these, the latter is the most important. He is one of those carefree individuals, being all that a college man is supposed to be and for whom, "variety is the spice of life." Consequently life to him is a pleasure, and as to the female of the species—well, each date is a new face and each new face is a new love. Can one wonder then that he is so well versed in parlor etiquette? "Russ," too, is seeking to discover the relationship between atoms and molecules as well as the "fourth dimension." We shall hope at some future time to hear that he has made some very important discovery that may increase the longevity of the nation and thus increase the prestige of his class and school.

This unassuming gentleman with the stray locks and the quizzical smile claims Lebanon as his home town. His expression, though, is very deceiving for behind those bashful eyes there is a profound interest in a number of things, including the "can" that Ford built. He is the proud owner of one of those mechanical miracles which is so highly recommended as a healthy adjunct to one's collegiate and scholastic activities. By this means he can travel like a potentate from his home to the door of the Ad Building. Ah—those luxurious, magnificent Ford coupes! Does he look peaceful? Perhaps, but you should hear the noise he can make with that horn of his. "Cheesie" is turning his footsteps toward being a chemist. Although atoms and the material things of life (including women) attract him, we should like him to remember, "the light that lies in woman's eyes, and lies, and lies, and lies."

There is an elusive suggestion of fresh lilacs and cameo pins about her that, combined with her friendly disposition and ready sympathy, endears her to everyone. A conscientious worker and a good student, she is a living exponent of the maxim, "Business before pleasure." Yet she has her moods and her rather nervous, sensitive nature leads her not infrequently into the depths instead of into the clouds. Nancy's schedule is always a heavy one, even now that she has given up her work as one of Prof. Reynolds' capable assistants. Lucky are those who have become intimate with her for Nancy is a true friend.

"They are able because they think they are able."

Who would have recognized the clever and fun-loving "Billie" Umholtz of today in the rather quiet and demure Mildred Umholtz of early freshman days? What or who has wrought this change? Well, we can at least partly account for the fine exam marks she makes. We hear that frequently just before she goes into an exam a telegram arrives from her dad wishing her luck and urging her on to successful efforts. We would wish that the resulting inspiration might be wider spread. "Lefty" is reputed as having bitten nicks in all the South Hall cups to better accommodate her left-handedness. "Billie" doesn't confine her interest to the gentlemen of her own class. Confidentially we know that it extends to the Seniors and even to the Freshmen. That's perfectly all right, "Billie." Doesn't the Bible tell us to love our neighbor?

This master of susquepedalian verbiage—whatever that means, has as his home port New Cumberland. To be born in this town and reared in the same place is the handicap with which he entered life. But to make matters worse, he attended Harrisburg Tech, a handicap which in itself is too great for the most ordinary of men to overcome. However, his good nature over-balances this disadvantage and his good cheer has gained for him our forgiveness. "Hod" is another of the class athletes, being a prominent member of both varsity baseball and football squads. He has a certain nerve and punch that stand him in good stead when in difficulty, and as a waiter—boys, he's a peach! He is able to practice his philosophy for he seems to get things with the minimum amount of effort. He not only ranks high as a student, but has represented both his class and school in various athletic events, thereby doing full justice to himself.

Last but not least is this attractive "five feet-two" of femininity. "Hilly" does not care about extra-curricular activities for herself but is, however, intensely interested in the medical career and the basketball achievements of a certain player. The young lady under discussion loves to talk—particularly about herself—and she has little difficulty in getting an audience, for she can talk about "nothing" in the most interesting way of anybody we ever knew. Her personality manifests itself in considerable social activity in which card playing and dancing strive for supremacy. The laughter-loving nature of "Hilly" knows no limit; she can laugh at anything and anybody. Since that time his work has been of such quality and his ability to lead so pronounced that his teammates have chosen him to lead them in their conquests on the gridiron next fall.

Off the gridiron "Ray" is a happy-go-lucky chap whose gruff manners and actions instill fear into even the boldest of the Frosh. Sophomore Class History

LATE in September of the year nineteen hundred and twenty-six, there appeared in Annville approximately one hundred and twenty-five Freshmen, making up the largest Freshman class in the history of the institution. This heterogeneous multitude of verdant Freshmen wore on their faces that touching expression of innocence and fright common to Freshmen the world over. In spite of this fact, the hike, on which the fair sex was well assured of the bravery and wit of their young gallants, was "pulled off" without any intervention by the prowling Sophs.

There are some unpleasant memories of the Freshman year in regard to the class scrap and the tug-of-war, but these are all overshadowed by the football victory and the success of the banquet at the Harrisburg Country Club House during the Christmas holidays.

With their second annual roll call in September, nineteen hundred and twenty-seven, they discovered that many of the comets of the Freshman year had sped clear of their little firmament, but that it was still resplendent with the glow of a goodly number of their steady stars. Although the class of '30 was diminished in numbers it was increased in wisdom by the experiences of the former year. With the memories of Freshman days still vivid in their minds, they gladly assumed the Sophomorical responsibilities of enlightening their successors upon the spirit and traditions of Lebanon Valley College. This was partly accomplished by the observance of Freshman Week, which was introduced for the first time.

Another dose of medicine to subdue the pride of the Freshmen was administered at the class scrap and tug-o-war. So equally matched was the strength of the two classes that they had to have a land pull in which the Sophomores held the rope without slipping for six minutes.

The Freshmen held up their honor by defeating the "Sophs" in the inter-class football game. The Sophomores were unmolested on their hike but not undiscovered, for a few of the courageous "Frosh" who tried to break up the hike entertained their class enemies with songs and recitations.

The class of '30, never losing sight of the real purpose of coming to college, looks forward with high hopes and eager expectations to the rest of her college days.

*"Give me some Music; music, melody, moody food
Of us that trade in love".*

Gay, tempestuous, tempermental Alyce! With her variety of moods she was never a bore but always an interesting, "living" companion. With characteristic disregard for such petty things as rules and regulations, she always began her vacations a week before anyone else and prolonged them another full week after all good little girls were back in their collegiate cages. The Muses were especially kind to Alyce for they gave her an enviable musical talent as well as a skill for doing all dainty handiwork—the creation of gowns and the skillful making and embroidering of them. As a busy Conservatory stude Alyce didn't have time for many extra-curricular activities.

What her two roomies would have done without her wall decorations, gentle tone of self-expression and other contributions is a thing for conjecture. Suffice to say that wherever she goes she will probably continue to please her acquaintances with true Alysian charm.

Clionian Literary Society

HE Clionian Literary Society, the oldest girls' society on the campus, celebrates its fifty-seventh anniversary this year. Clio has grown from an organization of a few worthy and zealous girls with a goal in view to a large society of loyal, accomplished girls who have not only reached the goal set by their sisters, but whose achievements have far surpassed it.

Each year Clio adds to her membership a number of the talented new girls. The society has the honor of having on her roll a large number of the ladies of the faculty and the wives of the professors. Every Clionian deems it an honor and a privilege to be enrolled in the Clionian Literary Society.

Then there is Minerva, Clio's goddess, who continually watches over her and guides her to more lofty ideals. Every member of Clio bows to Minerva and ever strives to answer her call.

Although Clio is known as a literary society, do not think that the society is interested only in the literary world. She never neglects the social features of campus life. Any Clionian will testify to the good times all enjoy at the joint sessions held with her sister society, Delphian, and the two mens' societies on the campus.

This is not the best that can be said of Clio. Her achievements have been many, but she looks forward with eagerness to the future. Her success in the past serves as an impetus to the attainment of all that is worthy and right in the future. She hopes to make this year the best year of all and to continually press forward, ever raising the standard of the Clionian Literary Society of Lebanon Valley College.

Delphian Literary Society

A valeur n'attend pas le nombre des années", Corneille wrote. If value were dependent upon age, Delphian would be of little importance on our campus; but not so. Just six years in February, a group of noble girls, seeking the best for their Alma Mater, unselfishly left their well-organized literary society and offered themselves as pioneers in the service of Delphian. It was indeed a small beginning, but with their hearts bound together by a common spirit of love and sincere service, it flourished. They blazed the way and we of the present only strive for worthiness to follow.

"Know thyself" is the admonition of Delphian to every girl who enters her portals. In truth, self-knowledge is a pre-requisite to the attainment of the best in life, and can be gained only through self-expression. Delphia offers to every Delphian the opportunity of expressing herself in her own way, be it through music, dramatics, public speaking, poetry or other literary composition, thus seeking out and developing latent talent.

Since the aim of Delphian is to prepare girls to live to the full every phase of life, she has also thrown open the doors of privilege to the acquiring of a broader cultural back-through a study of the classics, both musical and literary; to the physical development through athletics; to social enjoyment through continued pleasant association in the regular meetings and in joint sessions with brother and sister societies.

May Delphian be blessed every year by as great a gift of talent as has been her's this year, and may she send out into the world an ever increasing number of loyal subjects who are better for her influence.

Here's to the scarlet and gold
Here's to the sign of the poppy.

Kalozetean Literary Society

Each decade there are some five hundred million souls who, coming to their journey's end, disappear forever into the dim and the dusk of the eternity which we call the past. Of this great multitude there are a very few who are remembered beyond their own generation. These few are immortals largely because they lived noble, useful lives. Kalo does not issue guarantees of fame, but she does make a great and lasting impression for the better in the lives of her men. By her ideals she helps her members to be useful and happy.

Through all time there have been a few eternal and constant human values. Kalo has availed herself of these as practical ideals to follow. The two ideals of culture and fellowship have been pre-eminent in Kalo's fifty-one years of usefulness. There are scores of her members, in the practical realities of life, who are achieving noble purposes; and there are other scores who have left the world better than they found it. The lives of these men are enduring testimony to the manner in which Kalo has been living her ideals.

By culture Kalo means the appreciation of the finest things of civilization. In the literary sessions of Kalo every phase of life is presented and discussed. Music, art, literature, religion, science, politics, philosophy, and many other angles of our complex life have their place so that by the variety of her cultural programs Kalo endeavors to lead her members to greater freeness of thought and broad-mindedness, counteracting the narrowing influence of specialized curricular studies.

By fellowship Kalo means friendship deeper and greater than a brother's. Kalo's fellowship means man to man joys with all the formalities and vanities cast aside and forgotten. Her fellowship means a jolly good time. And it also means the bonds of deep and abiding friendships that stand tried and true adown the years and to the end of life.

As the years pass by, our college will go through many changing periods. Our Alma Mater is bound to grow and keep on improving. Kalo shall grow with the college, and with the growth, the changes, and the other things that may come and go we believe that Kalo shall maintain, from year to year and from generation to generation, these two practical ideals of culture and fellowship.

Philokosmian Literary Society

HILO is now completing another page in her long and interesting history. This year marks the sixty-first anniversary of her existence and all her members, active or ex-active, can feel well satisfied with her long list of achievements. Philo is only one year younger than the college itself, so she may be regarded as a very vital part in the life of the students.

Together with her sister and brother societies, Philo has been furnishing to her members that necessary literary and social training which is an outstanding characteristic of Lebanon Valley. Her graduate members never fail to attribute a large degree of the success they have attained to the preparation with which Philo fitted them. The society may be extremely proud of the successes won by her former members; successes which would have been unattained had those members not participated in her varied activities while students at Lebanon Valley.

Today Philo is enjoying the most prosperous period in her history. Backed by a wealth of tradition, she is still maintaining the splendid spirit of fellowship which characteristically marks the attitude of all the individual members. Her enrollment is large, and her members are active participants in all the campus affairs.

Philo is indeed fortunate in possessing the finest equipped hall on the campus, the result of the combined efforts of the graduate and active members. It is one of the features of which the college may well boast, and it is in this beautiful furnished hall where friendships are formed, never to be broken.

It is not a difficult task to predict what the future holds for Philo. Her splendid heritage urges one to believe that there are still greater and more gratifying accomplishments ahead. Realizing that all her members are banded together in striving to attain to the best, we believe that as our college becomes a "Bigger and Better Lebanon Valley," so also Philo will become a greater Literary Society.

Secretary Jane Fearnow

Believing that the inalienable rights of the members of our college community can only be obtained through an organized form of government, the girls of Lebanon Valley College pledge their allegiance to the Women's Student Government Association. It is the purpose of this organization to inculcate right democratic ideals and to afford harmonious social relationships on the campus.

Our government is founded on the belief that every student, upon entering college, assumes certain responsibilities. One of the most important of these is to regulate her conduct to conform with the highest ethical standards of life. It is to assist her in bearing this responsibility that our organization incorporates cooperation, obedience to law, honesty and good fellowship in its aims. For only by the formation of correct habits of citizenship in college today can we send from Lebanon Valley ideal citizens to become leaders in the world tomorrow.

Men's Senate

President	G. Clifford Singley
Vice-President	Elmer A. Keiser
Secretary-Treasurer	Miles S. Kiehner

The government of the young men of Lebanon Valley College is under the immediate control of the Men's Senate. The rules of the college are as few and simple as the proper regulation of a community of young men will permit. These rules, commonly termed "Major Offences" apply to all students of the college, an infringement upon which is punishable by recommendation to the faculty for suspension or expulsion. However, there is another code of laws which is chiefly applicable to the freshmen. A transgressor of these is punished according to the severity of the misdeed as judged by the Senate. The accused has the right to open trial and may offer testimony or witnesses in defense, should he desire.

The faculty appoints one of its members as advisor to the Senate each year. In addition to this the faculty prevents the Senate from overstepping the regulations of the college.

The organization is composed of fifteen members; six seniors, one of which is elected president; five juniors; three sophomores; and one freshman. Aside from this governing body there are certain honors and traditions about the college which the entire student body cooperates to preserve.

Ministerium

President Byron Sheetz
Vice-President Oscar Sneath
Treasurer James Hazelton

Of all the organizations on the campus which seek to develop the spiritual life of students, the Ministerium does most probably in enriching their Christian characters. This organization came into being for the express purpose of aiding students to experience and appreciate the wonderful power of prayer. Meetings are held each week at which reports of answered prayer are given, and requests made for united help in situations that are needful. The spiritual uplift the Ministerium gives to students can hardly be equalled elsewhere.

In the years to come, when the lightness of college days is passed and when shadows o'erhang, the memories of those sweet hours of prayer will remain and give us grace and power to move toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus, Our Lord.

Student Volunteer Group

OFFICERS

Group Leader Mae Hamer
Secretary-Treasurer Ruth Cooper

The Student Volunteer Movement is distinctively a student movement in origin, spirit and administration. Its activities center in colleges and universities throughout the United States and Canada. It is interdenominational and works in cooperation with all the Foreign Mission Boards.

The purpose of the movement is to challenge students to consider foreign missions as a possible life work; and to lay an equal responsibility on those not led or permitted to work abroad to choose their vocations in the light of Christ's commission and the world's needs; to unite those students who have declared their purpose to become foreign missionaries for mutual helpfulness in preparing for their life's work; and to lay the burden of responsibility on all Christian students, intelligently to promote and support the missionary enterprise.

The Genius of the Movement is the sharing by volunteers of a missionary purpose and a missionary enthusiasm with their fellow students.

The Writer's Club

President	John W. Beattie
Vice-President	Alice Kindt
Secretary-Treasurer	Carol Brinser
Faculty Advisor	Dr. P. A. W. Wallace

The Writers' Club was organized in the fall of 1925 by a number of students for the purpose of stimulating interest in writing. The students of which the club is composed are attempting to test their ability in the various phases of literary composition such as essays, stories, and poems. Original compositions are read at the meetings of the club. These are criticized by those present, thus enabling each one to see his weaknesses.

In each of its three years of existence, the writers' Club has sponsored a short story contest. It has also put over a parody contest and published several times (depending on the condition of the treasury) a journal known as "The Chat Book". Thus, although the Writers' Club may not be a powerful factor in the college life, it is nevertheless a positive one.

"Clubs may come and clubs may go, but the Readers' Club —", well, one can't be so presumptuous as to say "forever", but it is hoped that it will go on for many years.

If it be admitted that the desire to talk is an instinct, it easily follows that the desire to argue, if not truly inborn, is at least, soon acquired and becomes a habit. Upon this assumption the Readers' Club has planned its programs this year. In other years discussions were hard to start — not because there was nothing to say — but because there was no leader of the opposition. At the opening meeting of this school year it was decided to appoint a "devil's advocate" for each meeting, whose duty it would be to uphold the side contrary to the general opinion. The plan worked. Never were such debates heard in the club as are heard now. How Masfield's ears must have burned on that evening in which his portry was studied! If there were any members present who had not read "Dauben" or "The Everlasting Mercy" they soon remedied the defect in their education; they had to know what it was all about.

No matter what other clubs may be organized at Lebanon Valley, we feel that the Readers' Club will never lose its place at the head of the list so long as its enthusiasm lasts.

Executive Officer	J. Calvin Keene

The Lebanon Valley Rifle Club was organized in the spring of 1926 under the auspices of the National Rifle Association of the United States Government. The Government, through the Army Department, furnishes free to each member of the club, guns, ammunition, targets and various accessories as they are required.

The purpose of this club must not be misunderstood. It is not intended to be a military organization nor to foster militarism. Its purpose, on the contrary, is to "promote the sport of rifle shooting" and to develop among its members a love and appreciation of this sport which develops steady nerves and a quick eye.

As it did last year, the club has joined a league of eight colleges. Matches are held weekly and the scores from each school are telegraphed to headquarters which then announces the winning teams. Due to the absence of R. O. T. C. training, Lebanon Valley is somewhat handicapped in these matches but the members are receiving valuable training which they hope to use to good advantage in the National Championship Tournaments at Annapolis this Spring.

The Drum Corps

President Henry Aungst
Secretary-Treasurer John Beattie

Lebanon Valley's infant among the organizations, the Blue and White Drum and Bugle Corps, made its initial appearance at the Albright football game, and was immediately accepted as a full fledged member of the college family. Since its debut, the corps has made a number of appearances at the pep meetings and the home games. This new group replaces the band of former years, and judging by its reception, it will become a permanent organization. The corps consists of nineteen men, which includes the drum major, two standard bearers, nine buglers, five snare drummers, one bass drummer and one cymbal beater. It is expected that the number will be increased just as soon as conditions permit, for there is considerable interest being displayed in the work of the musicians.

The "Quittie" has always been a huge factor in the life of the student body of L. V. C. It serves as a pleasant reminder of college days and activities, and embodies all the ideals and traditions of our Alma Mater. With its aid, we are able to recall dear and familiar faces ; its pages hold the records of our own extra-curricular achievements; and it is a priceless history of the happiest years of our lives.

The staff this year has endeavored to make the 1929 "Quittie" the best that has ever been produced. With this goal in view, each member has aimed to do his utmost, working faithfully and earnestly. The able leadership and guidance of our editor-in-chief, and the hearty cooperation manifested everywhere on the campus have contributed greatly to the realization of the desire which is closest to the heart of every Junior—a "Quittie" worthy of our Alma Mater.

The staff has experienced a great deal of pleasure in preparing the publication of this annual, and unites in extending to the 1930 staff its hearty wishes for success.

The history of college publications on our campus is a long and varied one. On January 1, 1888, the first edition of any sort of publication appeared, under the name, "The College Forum." This lasted until 1896, when the name was made "The Forum," the latter being published until 1910. The campus newspaper then became "The College News," but after a long and useful service (1910-1919) it too, disappeared, and was replaced by "The Crucible." "The Crucible," a sort of newspaper-magazine, proved successful for several years, but 1923 heard its "Swan-Song," due to administrative difficulties.

About two years later—in the fall of 1925—"La Vie" made its appearance, under the able leadership of "Bill" Grill and "Hen" Gingrich, and although the road was hard and the work slow, these men laid the foundations for the "La Vie" we have today. In 1926 "Kelly" Ness and Wade Miller took up the burden, placing "La Vie" several notches nearer the standard of excellence.

Today, "La Vie" is not perfect—her support, especially, is weak—but she is "on the way."

The Cheer Leaders

"Red" Calabrese

"Jack" Beattie

"Russ" Oyer

"Ed" Hertzler

Backed by the crowd of Lebanon Valley rooters, each of the quartette of 1927-28 cheer leaders performed in a remarkable manner for the sole purpose of drawing from the supporters of the Blue and White teams every ounce of their stored up "pep" and enthusiasm. That they succeeded was loudly proved at the pre-game "pep" meetings, at the games, and at every student gathering where a supply of snap was in demand. Individual members of the "Jumping Jack" crew of noise dispensers had a full supply of it to use—and how!

With the unsung heroes and heroines uniting in acclaiming the struggling Lebanon Valley warriors, those representatives of the athletic side of the extra-curricular activities went into the battle with a stronger determination to win.

Each of the four members of the cheer leading squad was a relic of the previous year, three being Juniors and one a Sophomore. Oyer, Calabrese and Beattie represented the third year class, while Hertzler upheld the honor of the Sophs.

The student body is proud of its cheer leaders, and it is to be hoped that they will all return next year.

Football Review 1927

WITH the coming of the fall season, Lebanon Valley looked forward to a successful grid year. Fourteen letter men having returned from the previous season, Coach E. E. "Hooks" Mylin had a veteran team to work with. The running attack being built around Captain Gelbert, he had plenty of support from Singley, Nitrauer, Zappia, Snyder and Hendricks. Albright, a new Sophomore, also was a big help in the backfield although he was not eligible for the last two games.

The line was also practically intact, the right tackle being the only position unfilled by one of the returning letter men. This problem was solved by shifting Ray Wood from guard to fill the hole and placing "Joe" Wood in the position of guard.

A resume of the season shows two (2) victories, five (5) defeats and one (1) tie game. Lebanon Valley lost to Penn State, Fordham, Villanova, Mount St. Mary's and Schuylkill. The Blue and White's greatest victory was over Brown University, 13-12, which was considered the greatest football upset since Centre defeated Harvard. The other victory was over the strong Muhlenberg team, 19-0. In the final game, Albright and Lebanon Valley played to a 6-6 tie. Considering the fact the L. V. played all her games away from home and against many larger schools, the season cannot be called unsuccessful.

PENN STATE

In Lebanon Valley's opening game with State College, the Blue and White made a splendid showing although they lost 27-0. The L. V. line play was the outstanding defensive feature, State gaining very little through the forward wall. Roepke's passes spelled defeat for the Mylin Men. "Charlie" Gelbert was the most consistent ground gainer for Lebanon Valley, making several spectacular runs on kick-offs.

FORDHAM

For the second game of the season, Lebanon Valley opened athletic relations with Fordham. For three periods our boys played a fine game of football and outplayed the larger school and it was only in the last few minutes of the game that Fordham was able to land two touchdowns, which gave her the game 13-3. L. V. lost a fine opportunity to score when she recovered Fordham's fumble on the four-yard line, but was unable to push it over. Piersol's field goal in the third period looked big until the final moments when Fordham's attack proved too strong for L. V.

VILLANOVA

Villanova was out in full force to avenge her defeat last year and accomplished it by the score of 32-7. At the beginning of the game things looked bright for the Blue and White team, for in the first quarter, Captain Gelbert made a pretty fifty-two (52) yard run for a touchdown. In the remaining three periods, however, Villanova showed a sustained attack which accounted for her score. In this game Ray Wood made his debut as tackle, which position he played for the remainder of the season. Joe Wood took his place as guard.

MUHLENBURG

Muhlenberg was the first victim of the Lebanon Valley team and was defeated 19-0. This is the worst defeat Muhlenberg has suffered from L. V. in years. The Blue and White team was certainly at its best. Zappia, who was out of the team earlier in the season because of illness, made his first appearance and played a splendid defensive game. Captain Gelbert and "Boob" Hendricks were the offensive stars. The passes of Gelbert to Hendricks accounted for the many gains that led to scores. The whole line played a remarkable game and kept the Muhlenberg team far from scoring distance.

BROWN

In the Brown game, Lebanon Valley reached the height of her football career. Looked upon as the underdog, she travelled to Providence and whipped the famed "Iron Men". Coming from behind to score on both occasions, Lebanon Valley won 13-12. After Brown had scored, Ray Wood blocked a punt and after a march down the field, Gelbert took the ball over. Piersol then kicked the extra point which proved the winning point in the game. After Brown had scored again in the third quarter, Lebanon Valley came back with that fighting spirit for which she is noted and with a strong attack which terminated in a long pass from Gelbert to Bendigo, Bendigo raced over the goal line for the winning touchdown. The whole L. V. team put up a wonderful fight against the heavier team. In this game "Charlie" Gelbert played the best game of his career, which should have gained for him All-American mention. Both as offensive and defensive he was the star. On the line Wheeler and Piersol stood out.

MOUNT ST. MARY'S

Mount St. Mary's afforded a big surprise when they defeated Lebanon Valley 6-0. Although they were outplayed during all the game, Mount St. Mary's broke through in the second quarter to block Gelbert's punt, his first blocked kick since he began to play football, and scored the only points of the game. L. V. could not get her running attack and the position to score several times lacked the necessary punch to take the ball over. However, the line held well on defense, for not a first down was gained through the line and only two were gained by the aerial route.

SCHUYLKILL

The first game of the "Little Three" was played in the Schuylkill Stadium where Lebanon Valley was defeated 7-6.

Schuylkill showed a powerful running attack, with Barkman running the end and McDonald and Knorr hitting the line, they were able to carry the ball down the field to score in the last quarter. Lebanon Valley's score came as a result of Gelbert's run in the first period, which placed the ball inside the ten-yard line from which position he carried the ball over on the next play. In the game the L. V. line could not seem to function. Elberti was the star on defense, making tackle after tackle and being in nearly every play.

ALBRIGHT

After a week's rest, Lebanon Valley tied Albright in the last and biggest game of the season. While L. V. outplayed her old rival, she was forced to leave the game in a tie. In the first quarter, Weaver, Albright's right end, picked up a fumble and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. There was no more scoring in the first half. L. V. came back in the last half very determined, and after taking the ball down the field, a pass from Gelbert to Piela tied the score. Piersol's kick was blocked. In the final moments of the game, after Gelbert's long run had placed the ball within scoring distance, he passed the ball to Bendigo who made a fine catch but failed to take it across, mistaking the 5-yard line for the goal line. The game ended before another play could be made. Singley played well through the whole of the game, it being his first participation in any game since the Brown struggle. This game closed the college career of the Lebanon Valley stars; Captain Gelbert, Singley, Nitrauer, Elberti, Piersol and Wheeler. All of these men made a fine showing in their last game.

The 1927 Season

Lebanon Valley had quite a successful basketball season, winning 9 games and losing 9. The team was exceptionally good on the home floor where it lost one hard fought game by one point.

For the first time in years L. V. opened her basketball season at home and decisively beat Juniata 43-32. The next evening L. V. kept up her winning streak and soundly trimmed Schuylkill 32-11. Schuylkill found the basket only once in the last half. On a Northern trip the next week the boys' suffered two defeats, one by Juniata, 22-39 and one by Penn State, 31-22. The team seemed to be handicapped by the large floor at State College.

The following week L. V. played Mt. St. Mary's and Western Maryland away, and lost to both of them, 28-47 and 34-38 respectively. The team then journeyed to Georgetown and still seemed unable to break its losing streak, losing by the score of 29-54. It was at home that Mylin's team finally pushed ahead and Susquehanna was the victim. The final score was 51-29. After giving this crushing defeat, L. V. lost two more hard and close games, one to Muhlenburg, 30-39 and the other to Dickinson, 41-51.

After these games the Blue and White again hit the stride of which she is capable and won the next four games. The first of these was at the expense of our old rival, Albright, although Albright was leading at the end of the first half, 16-15. Piela and Wheeler then started to score and L. V. was in the lead the remainder of the game. In the second half Wheeler played one of the best games of his college career, cutting the net four times. This was the last game with Albright, due to certain rules on which the two schools could not agree and resulted in the severing of athletic relations for the present.

L. V.'s next guest at home was Schuylkill, who again fell, this time to the score of 52-35. Ursinus was the next game and was also played at home and which proved another victory for Lebanon Valley, 45-31. The following night the team went to Lancaster and met F. & M., in an exciting game. L. V. led up until the last part when F. & M. started to find the basket on long shots and nearly took away the victory, but at the end of the game the score stood 30-29.

The next game, Gettysburg, at home, was a hard one to lose. After a slow first half, both teams came back with more pep and the game proved to be the best one on the home floor this season. L. V. led up until the last 40 seconds, when a foul and a field goal put Gettysburg in the lead 42-41. Piersol, with the man-to-man defense showed himself to be a very valuable asset, contributing eight points to the score.

The Gettysburg game marked the last appearance of one of L. V.'s best all-around athletes, Charlie Gilbert, who left the following day to join the St. Louis Cardinals in Florida. Charlie was given one of the finest ovations by a student body on his appearance at the beginning of the second half. His last game was a "dandy" and he remains in the minds of all for his athletic achievements.

The next game was also at home, the home team defeating F. & M. 43-36. The game was entirely "Piela" from beginning to end. The star forward had an "on" night and made shots from all angles. The rest of the team put up a fine battle, feeding the ball to him and making his shots possible.

The last two games were played away from home, the team winning one and losing one. The first game was lost to Ursinus, 61-28, making the scores even for the season between the two schools. The last game of the season was against Drexel and L. V. won 38-27

This victory gave Lebanon Valley an even break of games in the 1927-28 season. After the last game Piela, forward, was elected captain for the next season, and although losing four varsity men by graduation, next year should prove another successful year.

1927 Season

Lebanon Valley finished a very successful baseball season, coming out on the long end, winning eight games and losing five. From last year's team were Captain Smith, "Chief" Metoxin, "Peck" Piersol, Charlie Gelbert, "Stan" Piela, and "Hod" Wentz who formed the foundation around which the club was built. The Freshman Class furnished some varsity material that greatly strengthened the team. A battery composed of Bendigo, catcher; Zappia and Hager, pitchers; with Moyer on second base and Hendricks in the outfield proved to be a big help.

The team opened the season with a game with Gettysburg, losing 14-11. After getting off to a lead, Piela weakened, but Zappia, who took his place, was also hit rather hard. The following game with Schuylkill was another free-hitting affair, Lebanon Valley winning 22-11. The first home game was a victory over Juniata, 7-0. Piela pitched a fine game, shutting out the visiting team. The second game with Schuylkill was close, Lebanon Valley being the victor, 2-1. The next game was played at home on May Day when Western Maryland fell to the score of 5-3 as a result of "Peck" Piersol's hard hitting.

On a Southern trip Lebanon Valley dropped two close games, one to Mount St. Mary's 3-2 and the other to Georgetown, 4-3.

Muhlenburg started off with a fine record, winning the first six games. However, when the Blue and White nine left the Muhlenburg diamond, it walked away with a 13-6 victory, thus ruining the Cardinal and Gray's chances for an unblemished season.

The next two games were also Lebanon Valley victories, the victims being Franklin & Marshall, 5-3 and Susquehanna, 7-5. The most exciting game of the season was against Albright. Sherid's delivery was too baffling, the result being a 6-1 victory for the Meyerstown nine.

Charlie Gelbert hit a home run over the left field fence, thus saving the team from a shut out. Another trip up state resulted in an even break, losing to Penn State 11-3 and winning from Juniata 5-1.

With the loss of only two varsity men, next year's club should prove itself to be another winning combination.

Lebanon Valley came through in fine fashion on the tennis courts, breaking even in the six matches played. Losing two star players by graduation, the Freshman racquet wielders had to fill in the vacancies. This they did, with Shroyer, Hertzler and Fink. Then with "Hen" Ludwig and "Gimpy", the combination was complete. Under Coach Bennett they easily beat Gettysburg in the opening match 6-0. Ursinus was another victim, L. V. taking the match 3-1. The contest against F. & M. showed the superiority of Lancaster's team and they emerged with the victory, 5-1. Albright, with her first tennis team in the inter-collegiate field, was an easy victim for L. V., the latter winning 6-0. Ursinus played at Collegeville and secured revenge on the Blue and White in the next match, winning 4-2. The last match of the season against Moravian brought defeat, 6-0.

Prospects for next season look very bright, Herr being the only member lost by graduation all the others returning to school.

The 1927-28 Season

The 1927-28 season was one of the best in the school's history for the co-ed's, who won 8 out of the 10 games and lost only to Albright and Juniata.

The girls, ably coached by Prof. Stokes, assisted by "Jim" Wallace, opened the season at Schuylkill and neatly trimmed them 27-5. Gettysburg was the next victim by the score of 45-31. The following week a return game was played at Gettysburg and again the L. V. co-eds were victorious, 45-32. The next game at Westminster, against the Western Maryland girls resulted in another victory, 17-15. Dickinson then fell to the score of 45-30.

The Albright game, played at Lebanon, was the first defeat for Prof. Stokes' team. The use of two referees seemed to bother the girls and in the final seconds of the game they lost 13-14. The second game with Albright was not played, due to the cancelling of relations between the two schools. Following this game, Schuylkill came to Annville and was again defeated 43-6. L. V.'s next and last defeat was at the hands of the Juniata girls at Huntingdon. The Blue and White were without the services of Miss Lane, which seemed to break up the combination. They lost 21-33. The next game was at home where Miss Meyer and her team defeated Western Maryland again, this time 24-20. The last game of the season avenged the former defeat at the hands of Juniata, Miss Meyer leading her team to a victory of 26-21.

The Misses Meyer and Freeman will be the only ones of the varsity lost by graduation. According to all indications, next year's team should be one hard to equal, thus enabling us to look forward with eager anticipation to the 1928-29 season.

Sing every loyal heart and true,
For L. V. C., dear L. V. C.
Unfurl the royal white and blue
O'er L. V. C., dear L. V. C.
From California's scenic glade
To old New Hampshire's cooling shade,
They come, in verdant garb arrayed,
To L. V. C., dear L. V. C.

Glad days we here together spend
At L. V. C., dear L. V. C.
Our friendship here shall never end
At L. V. C., dear L. V. C.
None can our happy way beset
With grim forebodings of regret;
Till life is done we'll ne'er forget
Our L. V. C., dear L. V. C.

Her walls may melt beneath the flame
At L. V. C., dear L. V. C.
But higher floats the honored name

The Tug

If you're a dignified Senior or Junior,
Or if you're a Soph or a Frosh,
You've heard of the Quittapahilla,
About which there is many a josh.

Every year 'tis the scene of a battle
Unequalled on land or on sea,
That is waged by the Sophomores and Freshmen
Just before afternoon tea.

Imagine a bunch of Sophomores,
Planted in holes in the sod.
On the opposite bank are the Freshmen
Arranged in a similar squad.

Each end of a rope is firmly held
By two opposing teams,
And they try to pull each other
Into the cold, wet stream.

When one squad has succeeded
In pulling the other one in,
They all march home together,
The victors wearing a grin.

A banquet rewards the winners,
In which the Class Cousins share,
And it is for this that each team
Is willing this peril to dare.

THE GHOST AND THE MONUMENT

'Twas the night of All Souls and some spectors
Finding Eternity hanging heavy on their hands—
As time does on the hands of heroes in fiction
In half sentimental and ironical mood,
Paid a visit to their former abode—Lebanon Valley.
One shade sought the haunts of the Lumber Yard,
And there among the board piles and sheds
Where once he had borne out and lived his strenuous years
Was a monument builded.

"Strange," murmured the shade, "I cannot remember this statue,
I wonder how long I've been gone?
I wonder what stupid person in this college has been immortalized!"
And his face rippled with a ghostly sneer.
"Statue", he said to the bronze, "What person has been uglified in you
So as to bring it to the comprehension of my fellow studes?"
And the great statue spoke,

"I am a symbol of brotherly love
Built from the Gratitude, Respect, Admiration and Devotion
Of the student patrons of this lumber yard,
In honor of its most faithful couples,
In honor of the steadiest rule breakers
Of the college, and to the cause of matrimony in general.
I was unveiled thirty seven years ago
Come next Michaelmas
With appropriate ceremonies.

Doctor Gossard's little daughter pulled the string.
All the faculty, several of the trustees and other notable personages were there
Several of the ex-presidents spoke and altogether it was a memorable occasion."

While the statue had been telling me all these things,
It seemed to me that there was something vaguely familiar
About the general outline and character of the statue,
But the shade could not remember the face, so he spoke to the monument,
"If you were anybody at all you would Certainly remember me. I was the most Faithful of all those who frequented the Lumber Yard.

I was most popular on the campus with the girls."
"Yes" said the monument, "and now let me tell you what my name is."
He gave a name and the shade
Drew back in astonishment for when he heard
This name he remembered it as his very own.
He was the person whom his fellow
Studes had chosen to immortalize in Saylor's Lumber Yard.

ONLY THE GREEN WAIT FOR THE SIGNAL

A traffic light
Means stop when red—
But lips that are
Mean "Go ahead".

Our labor has been well worth while, if by bringing together under one cover this record
of our happiest moments
and highest achievements, we have succeeded in firing even a spark
of the intense loyalty
of this class to itself
and to Lebanon Valley.
